FDP OBJECTIVES

Noise, Vibration, and Harshness (NVH), also known as Noise and Vibration (N&V), is the study and modification of the noise and vibration characteristics of vehicles, particularly cars and trucks. While noise and vibration can be readily measured, harshness is a subjective quality, and is measured either via "jury" evaluations, or with analytical tools that can provide results reflecting human subjective impressions.

Noise, Vibration and Harshness (NVH) is one of the most important vehicle attributes reflecting the quality perception of a vehicle. In Automotive industry there is a cut throat competition due to customers' increasing demand for more refined vehicles with special emphasis on NVH. There is a huge potential of Research and Development in the field of NVH.

This Faculty Development Program is aimed to increase the awareness level about NVH and explore ideas that can lead to better understanding the complexity of Noise, Vibration and Harshness (NVH). It will also assist faculty members of Government Institutes situated in Maharashtra State in disseminating adequate information for effective teaching-learning and highlight key areas of research in this field.
